New Golden CommPass Spell Checker Unveiled

MT. LAUREL, NJ -- December 5, 1995 -- Creative Systems Programming Corporation announces the debut of a new tool for their internationally acclaimed CompuServe navigator, Golden CommPass. The Golden CommPass Spell Checker is the first program designed to be used in conjunction with Golden CommPass.

The Spell Checker is available directly from Creative Systems Programming Corporation for a suggested retail price of $29.

In order to use the Spell Checker, you must upgrade to Golden CommPass version 2.22, which is now available. The Spell Checker comes with a U.S. English dictionary. Separate dictionaries for the U.K. and Germany are scheduled to be released in the first quarter of 1996.

“Our customers have requested many new features, however, the most requested feature has always been a spell checker”, according to Larry B. Finkelstein, President of Creative Systems Programming Corporation. “Now, we have filled that requirement and can continue to develop other enhancements and features that our users have requested.”

Founded in 1984 and a privately-held company, Creative Systems Programming Corporation designs custom applications for OS/2 and is a leading developer of OS/2 communications software.
